Dear Minority Leader Schumer and Ranking Members Markey, Merkley, and Wyden:

We are writing in response to your June 4th, 2025 request for information regarding the House-passed budget reconciliation package and its potential impact on rural hospitals.

The three questions outlined in the information request are provided below. Our responses follow in bold font.

1. Which U.S. rural hospitals treat the highest share of Medicaid recipients? Please identify these hospitals by name, state, and congressional district.

As requested, we have created a sortable Microsoft Excel file that provides Medicaid payer mix for U.S. rural hospitals. The Excel file identifies hospitals by name, state, and congressional district. Aggregated findings in the Excel file also tabulate the number of top-decile Medicaid payer mix rural hospitals by state and congressional district. The methodology used to calculate these results is summarized in the “Notes” tab of the Excel file.

2. How many rural hospitals are currently in financial distress or at risk of closure? Please identify these hospitals by state and congressional district and whether these hospitals are eligible for any Medicare rural hospital designation.

Many—if not most—of the more than 2,000 rural hospitals in the United States face some level of financial distress. However, the degree of risk varies substantially, and multiple methods exist to assess and quantify this risk. In responding to this request, we focused on hospitals most at risk of closure, using available financial data and established indicators of financial vulnerability.

We used two measures to assess rural hospital financial distress and risk of closure. The first measure indicates whether a given hospital has experienced three consecutive years of negative total margin (i.e., three consecutive years of unprofitability). Total margin is a simple, but effective, indicator of rural hospital financial performance.¹ The second measure leverages recent research¹ to identify rural hospitals at highest risk of financial distress (relative to peer hospitals). Our analysis found that 133 rural hospitals, or 6.2% of hospitals with available data, experienced three consecutive years of negative total margin from 2020 – 2022. In addition, we found that 83 rural hospitals are at highest relative risk of financial distress based on the prediction model described in footnote #1.

Please see the accompanying Excel file for further information linking rural hospital financial performance to hospital state, congressional district, and Medicare payment designation.

3. If the health care cuts in the House-passed budget reconciliation bill were to become law, would the rural hospitals with the highest share of Medicaid recipients or that are currently in financial distress face risk of closure or having to reduce services (including obstetric and behavioral health care, emergency room services, etc.)?

Hospitals that derive a larger share of their revenue from Medicaid tend to have lower profitability, placing them at greater financial risk than those with smaller Medicaid shares.² Medicaid cuts are likely to have a proportionate impact—meaning that hospitals most reliant on Medicaid are both more financially fragile and more vulnerable to revenue reductions. Substantial cuts to Medicaid or Medicare payments could increase the number of unprofitable rural hospitals and elevate their risk of financial distress. In response, hospitals may be forced to reduce service lines, convert to a different type of healthcare facility, or close altogether.

Sincerely,

Findings in the following worksheets are based primarily on recent data from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) Healthcare Cost Report Information System (HCRIS) and research by Malone, Pink, and Holmes (2025) on the rural hospital Financial Distress Index. More information on this research can be found at the following link: <https://doi.org/10.1111/jrh.12882>

Additional information on Medicare payment type is derived from the CMS Inpatient Provider Specific File. A payment type of "PPS" indicates a Prospective Payment System hospital with no additional special payment classifications.

Results are calculated for general acute care hospitals in rural locations, with "rural" defined based on criteria established by the Federal Office of Rural Health Policy in the Health Resources and Services Administration (<https://www.hrsa.gov/rural-health/about-us/what-is-rural>). Hospitals must also have a cost report covering a period of 360-370 days. After applying inclusion criteria, our sample included 2,170 rural hospitals.
